Notes

When I began to put into digital format my collective works from the past fifty years, I found a few works that had disappeared from my memory. They were a brief encounter, if performed, but more than likely not.

This is one of those little jewels that did not have any lasting attachment to me or (if any) my choirs.

As with all of the other works from the past, a little tweaking of notes and rhythm brought this to fulfillment. This version is in English, whereas the text most commonly is in Latin.

It is a short piece, this, and a bit of crystalized a Capella sunshine.
